in this concise yet comprehensive guide to using and praying the psalms in worship services john witvliet first offers summary of key biblical theological themes related to the practice of worship and he continues with reflections on every step in the process of preparing to use the psalms in worship drawing on insights from writings in the history theology and pastoral practice of worship liturgy and preaching including patristic testimonies as prelude and both reformation era and modern testimonies as two interludes the volume also offers a comprehensive list of currently available liturgical and musical resources witvliet offers a first a book designed to speak at once to both traditional and contemporary worship practices the biblical psalms in christian worship will appeal to a wide range of readers including college and seminary students scholars and teachers church educators worship leaders musicians and librarians recently published as foundations for preaching and teaching this resource is a compilation of scripture backgrounds for year a it provides commentary for every sunday and holyday feast and solemnity that may supersede a sunday the ministry of cantors has long been a valuable resource for music ministry formation this new edition includes valuable insights from sing to the lord music in divine worship the revised edition addresses more fully the distinction between the roles of psalmist and cantor suggests further concrete ways a paschal mystery spirituality must undergird both roles and offers practical insights for helping one discern the call to be a cantor new content also explores the power of the psalms to transform those singing into the kind of persons god is calling them to be as with the first edition this new book does not present the how tos of vocal technique warm up exercises diction principles etc instead the ministry of cantors focuses on what the cantor is doing beneath vocal technique surrendering self to the dying and rising of the paschal mystery the aim of the book is to help cantors delve more deeply into who they are and who they are becoming through their ministry the body of christ pouring self out in voice breath and prayer for the life of the world

william l holladay offers an illuminating and informative overview of the psalms chanted sung and recited by so great a cloud of witnesses hebrews 12:1 through the past three thousand years in a manner that reflects his broad historical and musical knowledge of the church's liturgy father deiss takes us step by step through the eucharistic celebration of the mass paying attention not only to the liturgy's repertoire of music and song but also to its participants as well the roles of the priest the choir the music director the organist the cantor even the singing congregation he discusses every musical aspect and offers suggestions for improvement and sound creative ideas about what the future may hold for christian liturgy as we enter the twenty first century the newly approved translation of the readings for weekday masses is now available to presiders preachers and faithful alike in a convenient one volume study edition ltp s study edition of the weekday lectionary although not intended for use in the liturgy offers many of the same features as its beautiful ritual volumes the efficient two column layout of the readings allows the user to view the first and gospel readings and the responsorial psalm together with few page turns the large clear type the same size as that found in ltp s sunday lectionary study edition is easy to read and the book s lieflat binding allows it to remain open to the correct page while the user consults other resources and takes notes for homilies and study groups those who attend daily mass regularly will want a copy of this volume for their own prayerful preparation as will presiders liturgists students and preachers those who plan and preside at daily services of the word or communion services will also need a copy to prepare reflections and practice readings the parish library sacristy and office can also benefit from this practical tool for preparing and celebrating daily mass psalms for preaching and worship a key addition to the critically acclaimed three volume lectionary commentary despite the rich resources available for studying the psalms few are as focused on their place in worship and preaching as is this volume the responsorial psalms of the revised common lectionary are here taken up in careful and often illuminating interpretation with attention also to their interaction with other lectionary texts the many ways that psalms can function meaningfully in the liturgical life of congregations are explored especially in john witvliet s concluding section i know of no work that combines practice and substance better than this lectionary commentary patrick d miller princeton theological seminary a fascinating book well organized well written and edited thorough and informative an excellent resource not only for preachers using the revised common lectionary but also for those wishing to preach a series of sermons on the psalms in addition worship leaders and worship committees will appreciate the many excellent ideas for using the psalms in worship highly recommended sidney greidanus author of preaching christ from the old testament and preaching christ from genesis here is something even better than a simple completion of the lectionary commentary which would be cause enough for gratitude serious attention paid to this one book could go a long way toward remedying the scandalous neglect of the treasure of the psalms in too much contemporary worship marguerite shuster fuller theological seminary contributors nancy r bowen william p brown walter brueggemann richard j clifford nancy l declaiss walford jennifer s green karl n jacobson rolf a jacobson melody d knowles eunny p lee joel m lemon james limburg j clinton mccann james k mead carol a miles luke a powery stephen breck reid sandra l richter cynthia l rigby kathryn l roberts brent a strawn beth laneel tanner roger e van harn raymond c van leeuwen j ross wagner gerald h wilson john witvliet christine roy yoder this new handbook will be welcomed by all congregations using the revised common lectionary convenient and user friendly this one volume guide provides resources for the entire three year lectionary cycle including midweek festival days this volume contains services of daily prayer for the full liturgical year especially useful for worship retreats session meetings and other weekday settings the presbyterian supplemental liturgical resource slt series includes liturgies that were used on a trial basis in preparation for the development of the book of common worship though superseded by the book of common worship slr resources remain valuable both for the variety of liturgical texts they contain and for the commentary on the text which contains rich historical theological and practical background responsorial settings have become an established way of singing the psalms in a way that involves everyone a cantor is central to this style and can easily deliver large amounts of text quickly and with sensitivity a response which a congregation can learn quickly even on one hearing can facilitate a spontaneous moment of creativity in our worship for many years robert fielding wrote responsorial psalm settings for the choir and congregation at romsey abbey hampshire in the uk most of these settings have been road tested and they will hopefully provide an additional option to those who use the psalms in this way this pastoral resource assembles the essential and current liturgical documents needed to prepare and learn about liturgical celebrations for sunday these pastoral overviews explain the theology purpose and authority of each of the included documents we re living through the greatest loss of faith in the history of the catholic church a refrain reverberating thru catholic america likely you are familiar with the statistics 25 percent decline in mass attendance 15 of churches closed and or consolidated 65 of catholics do not believe in the real presence catholicism the largest christian creed followed closely by fallen away catholics america s religious decline is not new experts claim christianity has been on decline since the removal of prayer from public schools in 1962 catholic school enrollment declined concurrently yet prayer was not removed from catholic schools predictably mass attendance followed what changed catholic authorities proffered explanations and recommendations none of which stemmed the tide a sure sign the root cause was not rightly identified as a cradle catholic father grandfather and amateur student of mass i offer an assertion supported by my love of catholicism logic and a book what changed was the equivalent of removing the pillar of prayer from public schools mass was removed from catholic catechesis school ccd rcia adult formation ambo and

Azure Logic Apps: Running Flows on Behalf Of

Introduction: Azure Logic Apps are a powerful serverless integration platform enabling the automation of workflows between various applications and services. A key capability within Logic Apps is the ability to execute actions "on behalf of" a specific user or service principal, rather than always running under the Logic App's own identity. This "on behalf of" functionality grants granular control over access permissions, security, and data manipulation within the connected services. This article will delve into the mechanics and benefits of running Azure Logic Apps flows on behalf of another entity.

1. Understanding Identity and Permissions in Azure Logic Apps: By default, a Logic App runs using its own managed identity. This identity is automatically created and managed by Azure, providing access to other Azure resources based on assigned roles. However, many scenarios require a Logic App to interact with services using the permissions of a different user or application. For example, a Logic App might need to update a SharePoint list item as a specific user to maintain audit trails or enforce access control. This is where the "run on behalf of" feature comes in. It allows the Logic App to impersonate another identity, leveraging that identity's permissions to perform actions within target applications. This differs from simply using connection strings and API keys, as it provides a more secure and manageable approach to authentication.

2. Implementing "Run On Behalf Of" using Managed Identities: The most common and recommended method for running Logic Apps "on behalf of" another entity is leveraging managed identities. This approach eliminates the need to hardcode credentials within your Logic App, improving security and maintainability. To achieve this, you typically configure the Logic App to use a system-assigned or user-assigned managed identity. The target service (e.g., SharePoint, Dynamics 365) must then be configured to grant appropriate permissions to this managed identity.

Scenario: Imagine a Logic App designed to update a SharePoint list item whenever a new entry is created in a database. Instead of hardcoding a user's SharePoint credentials, you assign a user-assigned managed identity to the Logic App and grant that identity the "Contribute" permission to the specific SharePoint list. The Logic App can then use this identity to perform the update, maintaining a clear audit trail and enhancing security.

3. Using User-Assigned Managed Identities: User-assigned managed identities offer more control and reusability. You create a user-assigned managed identity independently and then assign it to multiple Logic Apps or other Azure resources. This approach is particularly useful when multiple Logic Apps need to access the same service with the same permissions, as it centralizes identity management. Assigning and removing access becomes a simple process of managing the identity's permissions rather than modifying each individual Logic App.

4. Delegating Permissions with Service Principals: In some cases, you might need to run a Logic App on behalf of a service principal. Service principals are often used to represent applications or services. Similar to user-assigned managed identities, you'd grant the necessary permissions to the service principal in the target application. The Logic App would then be configured to use this service principal's credentials, allowing it to access the target service with the specified permissions.

5. Security Considerations: The "run on behalf of" feature is crucial for security. By avoiding hardcoded credentials and leveraging managed identities, you minimize the risk of credential exposure and simplify security management. Principle of least privilege should always be applied: grant the minimum necessary permissions to the managed identity or service principal to perform the required tasks. Regularly review and audit the permissions granted to these identities to ensure they align with current security policies.

Summary: Running Azure Logic Apps "on behalf of" a specific identity is a powerful security and access control mechanism. By using managed identities or service principals, you can securely automate workflows requiring access to resources with specific permissions. This approach enhances security, streamlines management, and provides better auditability compared to traditional methods that rely on hardcoded credentials.

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs):

1. What happens if the identity I'm running the Logic App "on behalf of" is deleted? The Logic App will fail to execute actions requiring that identity. You'll need to reconfigure the Logic App with a valid identity.
2. Can I use this feature with all Azure services? No, the availability of "run on behalf of" depends on the capabilities of the target service. Consult the documentation of each service to verify compatibility.
3. What are the costs associated with using managed identities? There are generally no direct costs associated with using managed identities. However, the underlying Azure resources that your identity accesses (e.g., storage, databases) will incur their standard costs. 4. How do I troubleshoot authentication errors when running a Logic App "on behalf of" an identity? Thoroughly review the permissions granted to the identity in the target service. Check the Logic App's logs for detailed error messages, ensuring the connection to the identity is correctly configured. 5. Is it possible to run a Logic App "on behalf of" multiple identities simultaneously? No, a single Logic App execution runs under a single identity. You might need to create separate Logic Apps if you require multiple identities for different actions within a single workflow.
